

MOHAMMED SALIH

Year: Senior

Major Focus: Mass Communication

Other Focus: Documentary Journalism

Graduation: December, 2007

WISH LIST: To find a sponsor for a documentary about the controversial elections in Sudan in Fall 2008.

Career Goals- To be an international correspondent for CNN or be a soccer analyst for a Spanish TV channel.

I am the first person in the Sudanese community to study Broadcast Journalism in the Bay Area. While here at San Jose State University, I really enjoy the attention we get in our small classes. I've learned a lot about news gathering and analysis despite our limited resources. I also take film and directing classes in our RadioTelevisionFilmTheater department.

In one year I have completed the following classes in the Journalism department:

J61B Broadcast and Online News Writing- The beginning radio and TV news writing class at SJSU.

J163 Audio & Video Streaming on the Web- Development, design and reporting on the RTVJ sequence website.

J164 TV News Writing and Reporting- The SJSU class which focuses on shooting and editing video stories for TV news.

J165 UPDATE NEWS staff class- I am currently a news writer, reporter, producer, video shooter and editor.

SPECIAL SKILLS:

Digital Editing: I own a video camera and edit stories using either Final Cut Pro or Adobe Premiere software.

Multilingual: I know Arabic fluently and I've taken several Spanish classes.

COMMUNITY SERVICE:

I've created a documentary about a group of SJSU students doing community work at an elementary school in Tijuana, Mexico.

I shoot and edit several events for my local Islamic mosque.

Mohammed Salih is Coordinator of the SJSU Campus Tours for the JMC School
